

If not in this dunya - we will meet in Jannat al Firdaws, inshaAllah. The situation is such that you will ~~lose~~ live another 30 years, maybe 40. When death will befall you, maybe then you will appreciate why I have gone now. At such news, there are parents in the world that would phone their families and friends and rejoice at the decision of their son.

Some ayat of the Quran come to mind:

- Surah Al-Baqarah: 216

- Surah At-Tawbah: 29

I think all of you will be upset, especially [redacted]. Please do not blame each other for why you couldn't stop me. It is better to spend time in praying to Allah.

May Allah (swt) accept all your good deeds and let you not die, except in a state of Emaan.

P.S. Just in case you think I am going to something in this country, you can rest easy that I am not. The conventional method ^{of writing} is safer.

P.P.S. If you want to keep my letter then cut from the dotted line, as these people (of UK) use every thing against you.

Now smile!
