

Quiz: Reporting 2012

There are lots of big events going on in 2012 - which means there are lots of things for you to report! Test how much you know about reporting live events with our special quiz.

Reporting live events

Q) What should you do before you go live with your bulletin?

- 1) Take a rest to recharge your batteries
- 2) Rehearse the bulletin and check that all the equipment you are using is working
- 3) Have a cup of tea

Reporting live events

Q) How should you prepare for commentating on your school's sports day?

- 1) Research the event, the sports and the people taking part in the event
- 2) Arrive just before the event starts
- 3) Choose a commentator you like and learn how to impersonate them

Reporting 2012

Q) How many days will the Olympic Torch relay take to travel from Land's End to the Olympic Stadium in London?

- 1) 50
- 2) 70
- 3) 90

Reporting 2012

Q) The Queen is visiting your school but she hasn't arrived yet. You're reporting live for the school website. You should...

- 1) Post an update saying she hasn't arrived then have a cup of tea.

2) Talk to people waiting to meet her.

3) Chat to your friends while you wait,

Reporting live events

Q) Live updates on your website should be...

1) Long paragraphs

2) Posted every 15 minutes

3) Short and snappy updates

Reporting live events

Q) You are editing a live events page covering your school football tournament. What should you do?

1) Wait and see what happens on the day.

2) Think about the things you want to include on the page.

3) Write lots of content ahead of time so you don't have to do much on the day.

Reporting live events

Q) School Reporters are at your school's football tournament. How do you get their updates onto your live events web page?

1) Ask one reporter to bring messages to you.

2) Ask your teacher to bring notes from the reporters to you

3) Ask them to send text messages to you.

Your Score

0 -2 Keep working at it

4 – 5 Good but could be better

6 -7 Well done!